

militaria by miles

What are the American students doing about this business of military training, are they co-operating? Well, there are so darned many of them that the platoons are considerably larger than was originally anticipated by the authorities.

Those men from the 7th Artillery, the Training Centre, and others, that spent last week-end in our gymnasium, seemed to have a discipline of their own; one that our battalion could profit by observing, in fact. On the night of their arrival they were given leave until parade at 8 the next morning. And it was noticed that at the parade next morning there was not a single absentee or a single man late.

And while we're on the subject of that camp in our gym, did you realize that there was a canteen there that sold cigarettes—pre-war packages of cigarettes? Well, if you didn't there were several McGillites that did, and that attempted to purchase thereof. However, their economical impulses were thwarted, as the soldier in charge, displaying the usual military perspicacity, easily recognized them without their uniforms, and jealously guarded his bulging pockets.

Col. McGee, who is former O.C. of the McGill Cont. C.O.T.C., visited the officers in their mess at a house party held on Sunday night.

Drill always has its diverting moments. There was the man who was at the head of a platoon and scared blue of making a false move. So he kept his head up and eyes straight in front looking his own height. He was a credit to his platoon. Unfortunately, he didn't hear the order "About Turn," and didn't miss anything when the platoon about-faced and left him. However, everyone agreed that his stiff and solitary march up the stadium was most edifying.

Remember in last week's column I mentioned that Gym Suits for P.T. periods might be expected in the near future? It is now officially ordered that every man in the Reserve Battalion taking P.T. periods shall turn out in a gym suit, and, above all, in running shoes. The advantages of this are obvious. P.T. will mean a real workout with showers at the end of it and getting into street clothes again with that feeling of being more alert, cleaner, in short, more fit. A military Time Table will be printed regularly on Page One of the Daily, so that everyone will know beforehand what form of training his platoon will do that day; and will therefore be able to prepare in advance. So next P.T. period will be done in running shoes—emphatically.

The question arises again of how a man can best serve the war effort. This time it's in connection with the graduate students in Chemistry who ardently wish to do their share of the drill; but some of their professors have raised the very sound point that it will merely mean that two hundred-odd hours (six per student) will be lost to the cause of research chemistry for war purposes.

Some of those who are seeking exemptions from the basic training may be interested in the fact that out of seventeen students who applied for exemptions recently, fourteen had their applications rejected.

R.V.C. French Club Plans Coming Year

The Societe Francaise met for the first time this season yesterday afternoon, at R.V.C. The meeting was an informal one, was planned with an eye toward acquainting Freshettes and other new students with the activities of the Society. It also provided an opportunity to chat informally with Mme. Furness, Honorary President of the group, and other members of the French department who were present.

The business of the day consisted of an outline of the Society's plans for the coming year, presented by President Frances Cox and Mme. Furness, and the election of representatives from the first and third years, Kathleen Fricker and Ivy Lawrence respectively.

PLAYERS' CLUB BEGINS SEASON

First General Meeting Stated for Today

Will Hold Presidential Election and Announce Play

Commencing its twentieth season on the McGill campus the Players Club announces a general meeting to be held in the Grill Room of the Union at 4.30 p.m. today to which all students are invited.

"The Club has a very successful background of good plays, which include Caepk's 'The Insect Play,' 'French Without Tears,' 'Richard of Bordeaux' and last year's production of Priestley's 'We Have Been Here Before' which was very well received by the leading Montreal dramatic critics. The activity of the Club has not been restricted to the campus; several years ago a special trip was made to Ottawa, where the presentation of 'The Rope' was attended and very highly praised by His Excellency Lord Bessborough," he said.

Thomson at present the head of the organization, added that freshmen are particularly welcome since in the past some of its most successful actors and actresses have been drawn from this group. Besides acting there is ample room for valuable experience in the fields of Play Direction, Make-up, Scenery design and construction. Publicity and many other phases connected with successful play production. The executive of the Club feel that the Players Club has in common with other Montreal dramatic organizations, a very definite obligation to carry on during wait-time.

An election will be held at the meeting today, in order to elect a new President since Andy Dixon, the President-elect, left college this summer to go on Active Service. The play chosen for production will be announced at this meeting and casting for this play will follow at the conclusion of the meeting. This play will be of a very light calibre and the Players Club hope a worthy successor to the very successful 'French Without Tears' of two seasons ago.

Nickelodean More Popular Than a Splash

Ten Nationalities Represented at Cosmo Club Party

By M. W.

The Cosmopolitan Club held its first party of the season, a comparatively splashless—Splash Party, at the North Branch Y.M.C.A. last night. Originally, it had been planned to embrace both swimming and dancing and a few brave souls actually took to the pool but for the most part, the nickelodean was the centre of attention.

Nearly forty people, representing about ten nationalities from every corner of the globe, attended. Britishers from remote parts of the Empire as well as England were much in evidence. There was also an interesting sprinkling of Americans, Chinese, French, and central Europeans.

The Club, one of the older organizations on the campus, is truly cosmopolitan in its membership. Five more gatherings, similar to the one held last evening, are planned for the current year.

He was previously connected with the University of Washington, in Seattle, Washington, and has done a great deal of research on the Japanese minority question in the United States.

The meeting, states the executive is open to all interested. Following the speech there will be a short discussion, after which the meeting will conclude in the form of an informal, social evening.

The various managers of the clubs and teams will be present to tell the freshettes all about the ski team, the basketball team, the fencing team and the badminton team. The two new activities which the M.W.S.A.A. will present this year are squash and swimming clubs, and Margaret MacKay, president of the swimming, will be one of the main speakers of the afternoon.

DEAN SPEAKS TO ASTRONOMERS

Dr. A. V. Douglas of Queen's Lectures at McGill

Discusses Application of Daplaer Principle to Astronomy

Dr. Alice Vibert Douglas, Dean of Women at Queen's University, and formerly Professor of Astrophysics at McGill, last evening addressed the annual meeting of the Montreal Centre of the Astronomical Society in the MacDonald Physics Laboratory. Dr. Douglas, who for sixteen years was secretary-treasurer of the Montreal centre and who was recently elected one of the vice-presidents of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, spoke on "The Daplaer Principle and Its Application to Astronomy."

At the close of the illustrated lecture, the president of the centre presented Dr. Douglas with a black evening bag, as a token of the friendship and appreciation of her services during her years as Secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Douglas explained the Daplaer Principle which was formulated in 1843, and which worked out the relation between the frequency of wave lengths when the source of the wave length is advancing and receding, and also its application to light.

Dr. Douglas closed by reminding her audience that all these experiments in astrophysics have been the work of great international co-operation. "This should remind us," she said, "that it is one of our duties to keep alive our faith in all mankind for international co-operation, and comradeship will surely come again."

CHANCES COME WITH CHARITY

By A. C. C.

"This is not our campaign but McGill's" is the slogan adopted by the McGill Amalgamated Charities Campaign Committee. And so, working under the above slogan, certain that the student body is willing to assume its responsibility as regards ensuring the success of the Drive on the campus, the Committee feels it might be in order to disclose, through the medium of this column, certain bits of information and detail to which it has access.

McGill's Tradition

McGill students are not without a tradition as regards humanitarian ideals, for way back in 1898 McGill undergraduates who ate in a little cafe on Bleury St. launched the University Settlement. They saw at first hand the needs of the district, and gradually formed classes and clubs.

Not a year has since passed that students like these have not willingly accepted their responsibilities as persons of the privileged classes and wholeheartedly contributed to the support of this and many other absolutely necessary institutions; institutions vitally important to the health, happiness and general welfare of the populace.

We realize today that living conditions in certain parts of the city are as bad if not worse than ever before. The past number of years of depression have taken their heaviest toll on that portion of our citizens who are by far least able to absorb their trials and tribulations, least capable of withstanding the repeated shocks.

The war too has brought its complications; resulting in increasing taxation. To many of us this constitutes but another item to consider, but to many people—people with whom we as students have very little association—this means increased taxation on foods, clothing and other necessities.

Some Answered Questions
We must realize that charity is not a substitute for government relief. Its work lies among the marginal groups—the destitute, the maimed, the blind the ailing and him speak.

McGILL GLEE CLUB WILL MEET TODAY

The McGill Glee Club will commence its practices this afternoon at 5 p.m. in the McGill Union Reading Room. Tenors particularly are asked to turn out, although the executive states that a few more basses and baritones would be very welcome.

Harry Norris, the director, has announced that the repertoire will consist of college ditties, sea shanties, and madrigals from Elizabethan days. The choir will this year, as in the past, co-operate with the R.V.C. Glee Club in mixed choral work from composers like Sullivan and Elgar.

He wishes to emphasize the fact that the Glee Club does not require a high degree of skill from its members, and all that is asked for is a sincere love of music.

FEEL CONDITIONS NOT DESIRABLE

PRE-MED GROUP HEAR DR. SMITH

Addresses Society on Function of Bacteriology

Main Achievements Lie in Field of Preventive Medicine

Dr. Frederick Smith, speaking on "The Place of Bacteriology in Medicine" before a meeting of the Pre-Medical Society in the Union Grill Room yesterday, emphasized the fact that the bulk of achievements in the field of bacteriology lie in the field of preventive medicine, and in control of diseases.

"Because little credit is given to workers who maintain the public health services such as controlled water supplies, bacteriology doesn't seem as important as it really is," he stated. "In reality, individual applications of theory by doctors are a drop in the bucket compared to its application to general human welfare."

Dr. Smith remarked on the recent nature of bacteriological discoveries, and pointed out that as short a time ago as 1918 twenty million people died of an influenza epidemic in ten months. Large epidemics, he stated, "such as the Black Plague in the 14th century, which carried off 25 per cent of Europe's population in less than a year, have altered the course of history."

He went on to say that it was not until 1880 that much progress was made in the knowledge of germ diseases. The work of German physicians with typhoid germs resulted in controlled milk and water supplies, and later reforms followed. He added that it has recently been discovered that almost half of the two thousand known diseases are infected.

At the short business meeting, which was held before the address, it was announced that a St. John Ambulance course would be started in a few weeks. All Pre-meds interested were asked to get in touch with Ralph Hertz, president of the society. Hertz stated that orders for the pins of the society are still being taken, and must be placed with the executive as soon as possible.

A program of games, folk dancing, Hallowe'en refreshments and nickelodeon music has been prepared.

"Everyone should come in costume," states Popsy Francis, Chairman of the S.C.M. entertainment committee. "They can be quite crazy and need not be elaborate. Those who don't dress up will be haunted."

Admission is 25 cents. Everybody is invited.

Arts Debating Society

SPEAKERS ABSENT

Statement by President Is Not Available

MEETING IN UNION

Motion Is Presented Regarding Prospective Women Members

The Political Economy Club meeting adjourned last night after hearing a statement read by the President, Stewart Willis, to the effect that the alleged presence of police at the meeting would interfere with the course of the speeches and discussion.

The proposed speakers for last night's meeting were Gui Caron, student of Economics, and Mr. Lucien Croteau, member of the mayoral secretariat staff at the City Hall, who were to give papers on the questions "Is Conscription of Wealth and Manpower Desirable?" Neither of the speakers appeared at the meeting.

Objection Raised

An objection was raised from the floor that the executive could not adjourn the meeting without a motion from the floor to that effect. The objection was acknowledged by the president, but a motion for adjournment was immediately presented and passed by a vote of 23-18.

The cause of the adjournment was contained in a statement read to the meeting by the President after consultation with the executive. The statement, which appears in the minutes of the Political Economy Club in the form of a motion, is not available for publication at the present time.

Discuss Co-eds.

Previous to this announcement and to the adjournment, there was discussion on the question of amending the constitution of the club so as to admit co-eds engaged in the study of Economics to the meeting. A motion was presented to this effect, but cannot be discussed before two weeks have passed as the club constitution stipulates this time delay. Another motion was presented to inform the co-eds that their presence was not desired in the club, not for lack of logic or ability, but because the men students merely did not want them. This was withdrawn, and will be re-worded and presented at the next meeting.

Following the adjournment refreshments were served to the club members, and a discussion followed on general economic subjects. The executive of the club has made no announcement as yet, but one will be presented shortly, with the data and subject for the next meeting.

I.V.C.F. Hold Fireside Meeting on Saturday

Mr. Harold Lewis, former minister of Garden City Baptist Church, will be guest speaker. After the meeting there will be an informal discussion group, and refreshments will be served. The executive extend a hearty invitation to all, and especially to the Freshmen.

Rhodes Scholarships

Announcements have been posted in all university buildings to the effect that in spite of the war, Rhodes Scholarships will again be selected this year. Awarded to perpetuate the memory of Sir Cecil Rhodes, these, the most coveted of scholastic awards, entitle their winners to spend two years at Oxford University following any course of study which they may desire. Unless special permission is granted, the scholarships will be deferred until after the war.

Quebec's allotment is two scholarships each year, one to be awarded to a French University and one to an English University within the province. McGill has been honoured many times in the past by having the scholarship awarded to one of her students and we believe that there are many more students at McGill who measure up to the requirements.

The qualities which are considered in making the awards in addition to literary and scholastic ability are: manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, unselfishness, leadership among his fellows and a healthy interest and participation in athletics. These qualities while far from unattainable are not possessed by the average student who thus should begin planning now so that he will be in a position to apply when his time comes.

Applications are being received not later than November 10th by the secretary of the Quebec Selections Committee from whom full details and further information can be obtained.

Council Notes

While every member of the Students' Society has the privilege of consulting the Council's minute book at any time upon receiving the permission of the president of the Society, not every student is so interested in the activities of the Council as to spare the time to come to the Union and consult the minutes in person.

For the benefit of those students who are interested, the Daily has adopted the policy of reporting a brief summary of the business conducted at each meeting of the Students' Executive Council. As soon after each meeting as is possible, we will publish the highlights of that session in the column "Council Notes." The first of such reports appears in today's issue.

Help and Be Glad You Can

WIDE-EYED IN GOTHAM

By Reuven Frank
(A C.U.P. Feature)

Political Gymnastics

By and large, the Democrats do not like Roosevelt: byer and larger, the Republicans have a profound contempt for Willkie. The parties are dissolving and realigning in one mad, confused, hopeless scramble. It is just a matter of days before Vice-President Garner, Democrat, will come out for Wendell L. Willkie, ex-Democrat. The American Labor Party will carry important New York State for the President. And the most vociferous of all groups are the Democrats-for-Willkie.

It boils down to this: Willkie is out to beat Roosevelt, and Roosevelt is out to beat Hitler. Mr. W. feels he is being neglected in favour of Mr. H. and becomes more and more hysterical. The President ignores these fulminations, but delivers a Columbus Day speech that shakes a bigger stick at the boys of the Axis than his Cousin Teddy ever held in his hand.

But when the first guns were fired, the man who led off for Roosevelt was none other than 'Onest' Arnold Hickes, the Republican from Chicago. And Republican Mayor LaGuardia has also sounded off for that man in the White House, dragging with him Progressive Senator Bob LaFollette (fighting son of Fighting Bob) and a host of Republican ex-governors. Almost simultaneously, Republican Borough President Harvey of Queens announced that if Roosevelt will be elected, he will move to Canada. Even being a Republican is no sign that you are for Roosevelt.

Second Guessers

Do you remember the nominating conventions? Beneath that overwhelming quantity of sheer wind two facts stood out. The President was not renominated by the party machines but by the people who elected the delegates. And don't let anyone tell you different. Despite the bungling engineering of Harry Hopkins, the President was nominated as spontaneously as anyone will ever be under indirect democracy. Willkie on the other hand, was unknown to the ordinary folk who elected the delegates. He was known to the readers of the financial page, to the readers of Fortune (Time for a dollar) and to Herald-Trib columnist Dorothy Thompson and Walter Lippmann. More than any others, these last two brought about his nomination—and, both have recently declared for the President.

There is a strained optimism that Republicans will put on for the public view, but speak to them in private and they say "We should have nominated Taft." Mombing, pedantic, unattractive Senator Taft as against Glamour Boy Willkie! But they realize that Willkie was a double-or-nothing throw, and they are going to get nothing. Every time Willkie opens his mouth, he puts his feet, his hands and three opposition writers in it. Taft would have been no better, and would never have carried the country. But there would have been a Republican Party left after Taft's defeat.

Battle of the Buttons

Have a look at the facts. Willkie is the rawest of political tyros. When Dewey announced his intention of contesting the Republican nomination, the wisecracks said, "Aha! Tommy has thrown his diaper into the ring." It was a good crack, but it fits Willkie more than it did Dewey. Why the man has never been an alderman or president of his college glee club or anything but President of Commonwealth and Southern, and that is not an executive, but an advisory position. Don't let the press releases fool you: he is being ridden by all the hacks of the Republican Party, by Joe Martin and Hiram Johnson, and Arthur Vandenberg Herman Jaekle. And in the accepted political tradition, they have allowed everything to run wild in his name.

In years to come, this election will be known as the Battle of the Buttons. There are Willkie buttons and Roosevelt buttons (reaching six inches in diameter), there are "No Third Term" buttons and "I Want to Be a Captain, Too" buttons, besides a host of others which deal with members of Roosevelt's family in a manner reminiscent of the nickel scandal-sheets. There are even buttons announcing the reopening of Leon and Eddie's.

Add Surveys

Well, you say, now that you know so much, who is going to win the election, Mr. Smarty-pants? The answer to that one is easy: Roosevelt is going to carry forty-three states. I know I am out on a limb, and Dr. George C. Gallup is sawing it off right at this moment, but you wait and see. I figured it, see? I sat and thought about it, and spoke to the janitor and the grocery-clerk and a couple of other people. (This means I conducted a "survey.")

Charles Van Devander of the pro-FDR New York Post gives Wendell eleven states; the Gallup poll gave him eight a few weeks ago and have added a couple every day; the Dunn poll (they picked Landon) gave Mr. Willkie the election, the country and Baffin Land thrown in for good measure. To the people in the know it looks like Roosevelt, but by a cat's whisker. Well, I proclaim to one and all that the President will be re-elected by my uncle's beard.

End of Wendy

You must remember one thing about "polls": they may provide a good sample of public opinion at any given time, but they do not provide the atmosphere of the election booth. You can say one thing to the neat college girl who knocks at your door—and mean it sincerely—but casting your ballot that way is an entirely different matter. If all the people who didn't like Willkie voted for Roosevelt, the latter would be re-elected by forty-eight states. The farmers don't like the utilities magnate who once fought cheap power, the little business-man is suspicious of Wall Street, the worker, employed or unemployed, feel that Willkie may talk a lot but you can't trust him on his labour record... and so it goes down the line. A new arrival in politics, Willkie must stand or fall by his reputation in business. And it is my opinion that he is going to fall so fast he'll scare the wits out of the Japs in China.

Willkie will carry Maine and Vermont, although I am not too sure about Maine. He will carry the Pennsylvania Dutch and the Few machine in Philadelphia. He will carry North Dakota and Nebraska, because the farmers have been doing well without much help from the alphabetical agencies in Washington. But his own state of Indiana is a cinch for the other guy, as is running-mate Charlie McNary's Oregon. Dr. Gallup says that Kansas will go his way, but I doubt it; they wouldn't even vote for Landon, their own governor, and as for South Carolina, there's a drought out there and Willkie fought the TVA.

All for One

In short, it is going to be a landslide. Three states less than '36, but an overwhelming vote in confidence of the administration. Those who disagree with his domestic policy will vote for his foreign policy and those who disagree with his foreign policy will vote for his domestic policy. Dorothy Thompson is a good example of the first class, Bob LaFollette of the last. Neither of them would vote for Willkie because they are not sure what his policy is. So, move over, Canada, Borough President Harvey of Queens is coming!

CHESS

The Opening.

It is the common practice of most chess players to write a book for beginners as soon as they enter the master class. The preface usually assures the reader that he is being introduced to a wonderful game; and although it is an extremely difficult one, there is no reason why he should not become fairly proficient with a little hard work. Of course, it is understood that this preliminary labour is a means to an end which will be amply repaid in due time. Then comes a number of precepts which are the Ten Commandments of chess, viz:

1. Never move one piece twice if there are still others to be developed.
2. Beware the premature attack.
3. Keep your queen out of play until the game has assumed a balanced position.
4. Avoid double pawns.
5. Plan to control the centre of the board.
6. Plan to castle on the king's side.

They then give you the moves which constitute the various openings, and the trusting beginner is otherwise left to his own resources. Undoubtedly this catechism is very sound, but it usually doesn't mean anything to the amateur until he has learned by bitter experience. The following analysis attempts to coordinate both theory and practice.

The Ruy Lopes.

Black. White.
1. P-K4 P-K4
2. N-KB3 N-QB3
3. B-N5

White has apparently started an attack on Black's KP. Black, however, may regain the pawn without loss of position. White's real motive is to develop his pieces and at the same time try to cramp Black's game as much as possible.

4. B-R4 P-QR3
5. castles N-B3

If Black now captures White's KP he will eventually have an inferior game. White has the advantage of the opening move, and if Black moves his KN twice he loses still another tempo which will begin to tell in the middle game.

6. R-Ksq. B-K2

Now that Black has placed his bishop in front of his king, White is not so anxious to give up his KP since the compensation in position will no longer be adequate. The reason is that Black may now castle and remove his king from danger.

7. B-N3 P-QN4
8. P-B3 P-Q3
N-QR4

At first glance it seems that Black is wasting a move. The knight is being taken out of play in order to attack the bishop which also

TEAMS IN GOOD SHAPE

Lafoley Sparkplug of Army Attack — Reed Good

Monday will see the co-ed athletes rushing towards R.V.C. from all directions to attend the semi-annual meeting of the M.W.S.A.A. This year the meeting will have special significance as many new activities have been introduced into the field of women's athletics. Of course all will be anxious to learn something of the new clubs that have been and are being formed, and the best way of obtaining such information will be to appear at the meeting on Monday at 8.30 sharp in the R.V.C. Common Room. As an added inducement to the quorum of 50 that will be necessary to pass the amendments to the Constitution the tea will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Tomorrow evening an event is taking place which should prove of special interest to the R.V.C.-ites who have signed up for the new Squash club that has been formed. Mr. Ted Greene former instructor at the Mount Royal Tennis club will give a demonstration lecture on Squash at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium at 8 p.m. this evening. Co-eds are especially invited to attend as the lecture should prove of value when they come to actual participation in the new R.V.C. Squash club which meets in the gymnasium on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 2-4 p.m. If the co-eds wish to play this evening they are asked to bring along their rackets as they will without doubt have ample opportunity to use them.

R.V.C. has been indeed fortunate in securing the services of Miss Marjorie Pick Coach of the Intermediate team of the Y.W.C.A. to coach the co-ed co-eds. Miss Pick was responsible for the top honours obtained by the Y.W.C.A. Juniors last year when they were Champions of the Intercollegiate League.

Rumour has it that there is a slight possibility that the R.V.C.-ites may once more be able to breach the boundaries of the Sanctum Sanctorum and obtain the use of the gymnasium for perhaps one day a week. We hope that this is not a false rumour!

The swimming list in R.V.C. has received remarkable attention and is practically completed. We are pleased to state through the medium of this column that there will be bigger and better Intercollegiate competition during the coming season in all fields of co-ed athletics. Swimming thus should prove particularly stimulating for those who are interested in entering into friendly meets.

Margaret MacKay has taken over the helm and is doing a fine job of organizing this new club. Anyone who would like to learn anything further would do well to get in touch with their new swimming manager.

Plans are already under way for the securing of a pool adequate for the needs of the co-eds and it is very probable that the Knights of Columbus pool will be the choice.

Although badminton mixed doubles were a very large part of last year's program, this year the co-eds have been fortunate in holding their tournaments at the new gymnasium.

Tuesday next will see the first of these gatherings getting under way.

MFC Hilites

By L. B. and A. C.

Well the week has come and gone, and Montreal has won its first football game of the season. In fact, it has been three long lean years since a Montreal team in the Big Four has enjoyed even a single triumph. Yes, the jinx is broken at last!

Last week this columnist predicted a double win for the Hughes team in their home-and-home series with Hamilton. Now we admit that we kept our fingers crossed, but the boys came through in fine style and made apparent experts of us, at least for the first half of our prediction. However, although the worst may be over in that regard, we are still out on a limb, since tomorrow will find the two teams facing one another in the return game.

TEAM MERITS SUPPORT

We now feel surer than ever that the local squad will complete the sweep and balance their losses with their wins. Here, then, is where Mr. McGill Student enters the story. YOU will be a guest of the Montreal club for this game, which is to be played at Molson Stadium. Simply bring your Library card to the Stadium, and be assured of an excellent seat, free of charge. A ticket of admission to the special student section will be supplied by the seller at the gate on the presentation of the said card.

We now reiterate our exhortation of last week calling our student football fans to the support of a fighting team. It broke a hoodoo of three years' duration on Saturday, and was battling on foreign territory at that. That must have required no little bit of gameness, and a game team deserves support. So let's all be at Molson Stadium tomorrow.

OTTAWA SWAMPS TORONTO

There was also another football game in the Big 4 last Saturday. Toronto Argonauts invaded The Ottawa Rough Riders' corral and were given the roughest ride that a

PLATOON SPORTS REPRESENTATIVES

All the Platoon Sports Representatives have been supplied with a Questionnaire in which all students are requested to indicate their favorite sport in which they are prepared to participate during the coming season. So far, returns are coming in at a very encouraging rate and if the remainder are as interesting, the Intercompany Point Participation scheme will be a great success.

Following the practice of having experts demonstrate their particular sport at the beginning of the season, the same practice will be followed in respect to volleyball, table tennis, weightlifting, fencing, boxing, and wrestling. So be on the lookout for announcements of these coming events.

The whole plan and purpose behind all this is to stimulate interest and participation in sports for Sports sake and for the development of physical fitness and a better esprit de corps among McGill students in general and members of the various Companies in particular.

Swimming and water polo is next on the list for a campaign, so all you nautical experts, would-be experts, and especially novices start in and get out to the Knights of Columbus Pool at 1191 Mountain Street for some practice. On Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 5.30 until 6.45 p.m. Leadership will be provided soon for beginners in Swimming, Life Saving and Water Polo, and it is hoped if sufficient interest is shown that an Inter-Company Water Polo League will be formed. NOW it is up to YOU.

SOCCER

There was a much better turnout in soccer yesterday than those on previous days. Keep up the spirit as there will be a game on the Upper Stadium on Saturday afternoon at 12.30 p.m. Practices are held every day on the Upper Stadium at about 4.30 p.m.

SQUAD LEADERS

Thirty-five men have answered the call for Squad Leaders to date. Every Company is now represented and more than half of the Platoons have at least one man on deck. MORE MEN ARE NEEDED. The Leaders Corps needs a total of some 60 men (two from each Platoon) to reach its full quota. There is room for an additional 25 men. If you have ever given any leadership in P.T. work whether in High School, College or other Association then you are the man we want. Leaders are needed to assist with the regular calisthenics periods, to act as demonstrators and instructors on the various pieces of gymnastic apparatus, to assist with the recreative program and to act as officials and recorders in the Fitness Efficiency Testing scheme.

Experience as a 'leader' is not a necessary requisite. Perhaps you have been a member of a school or college gymnastic team, perhaps you are possessed of natural athletic ability or maybe you are just keenly interested in becoming a proficient all-round P.T. leader. Whatever the case you are welcome to come out and join the Squad Leaders Corps. Instructional periods are being held every Tuesday and Thursday from 5.00 to 6.00 p.m. and from 6.00 to 7.00 p.m. If you are interested then come out to the next class.

All the work to be taken is primarily of an elementary nature. At present the squad is learning fundamental movements on the mats, vaulting horse, side horse, horizontal bar, and parallel bars. The exercises are well within the limit of any average student and with a little application one should be able to become quite proficient on all pieces of apparatus. Other phases to be studied are straight class work or calisthenics which go to make up the Formal P.T. periods, group games, recreative activities and efficiency tests.

As soon as the leaders-in-training have proven themselves capable of assuming the full responsibilities of a Squad Leader they will be called upon to assist with the more diversified Physical Education Program to which the members of the McGill Reserve Battalion will be introduced in the near future.

The following men are asked to report at tonight's practice (plus any others who are interested): Norman Taylor, Ernest Skutelsky, George Ling, Bill Weber, E. G. Mahon, Stan Knox, Wm. Braye, Paul Byers, F. A. Horning, L. Sabbath, S. Dembicki, Warren T. Canniff, Hyman Hershman, George Bowen, J. Massie, H. McLymont, Basil Burgess, Al Puc-Gluchrist, G. A. Leonard, N. Holland, Art Henderson, Dave Singerman, D. N. Solomon, Dick Stevenson, Ross McConnell, Ronald Bayne, Robert Collier, Leonard McCallum, Bob Forrester, John Simpson, Guy Royer, Blake Robinson and W. Savage.

SAILING CLUB WILL LEAVE FOR BOSTON

McGill has accepted the invitation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to participate in the annual sailing regatta. Those journeying to Boston on Friday or Saturday to participate in the meet on Sunday, October 27, are Vice-Commodore Paul Byers, Secretary Archer Ramsey, John Keys and Hugh Anderson.

The regatta will have representatives from twenty-three colleges, the only Canadian entries being McGill and Toronto. The Redmen will not compete as a group as was sometimes customary but rather as individuals. Last year the McGill squad placed tenth.

The problem of passports has almost been settled and the Sailing Club is anxious that all newcomers interested, get in touch with either Dick Stevenson or Sam Mislav in order to obtain further details.

The experience to be gained in this competition will give one and all a valuable preparation for future Canadian meets.

MUSTANGS CONTINUE

University of Western Ontario Mustangs, Intercollegiate Football Union senior champions last year and deprived of competition this fall when the Intercollegiate Union decided against operation because of war conditions, has scheduled exhibitions contests.

Bookings include games with Royal Military College, Kingston; the University of Detroit, and Camp Borden of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union.

The Mustangs, now operating as the Canadian officers training corps squad, will meet R.M.C. Saturday under auspices of the Canadian Red Cross.

On Saturday, November 2, they will meet the University of Detroit under rules to be devised to take in the best of the Canadian and American games, and Eastern Canadian rule-makers will be invited to attend the game and see for themselves how the innovation works out.

The game with Camp Borden is tentatively set for November 16, date of this match depends on how the soldiers make out in the ORFU.

HARRIER.
All men interested in competing in the Dunlop road race and other distance races, which are being planned are asked to get in touch with coach Van Wagner or report at the Gymnasium at five p.m. in the afternoons for practice runs. No previous experience required.

Council Notes

The following is a brief summary of the business conducted at the last two meetings of the Students' Executive Council.

Correspondence regarding N.F.C. U.S. Exchange Scholarships was read as received. Reports were that Exchange Scholarships had been received by Joan Edward and Lloyd Williams.

The contract for the exclusive sale of McGill Blazers was awarded to the T. Eaton Company Limited of Montreal for one year dating from October 1st, 1940.

The constitution of the Debating Union Society as submitted by the executive of that society was approved.

It was recommended that if possible the French Charities be included in the amalgamation of the charities drives at McGill.

The appointment of the Cheer Leader for the coming season was tabled until such time as a committee could report on the possibility of more adequate cheer leading.

Sydney Segal was appointed Editor of the McGill Annual for the session 1940-1941.

"A" awards were made to the following: Patrick C. Little, Producer, Red and White Review; Walter G. Conrad, Editor, McGill Annual; Russel Meriheld, President, Students' Society; James Bulger, President, McGill Union; Malcolm N. Davies, Editor-in-Chief, McGill Daily; Eleanor Hunter, President, McGill Women's Union; all for the session 1939-40.

A Red Cross campaign will be held on the campus during the week of October 2nd—October 9th.

The President reported on the progress of the McGill Band. The financial reports for the 1939-1940 session were approved and the question of appointing a Finance Committee was tabled until the next meeting.

The contract signed by Mr. Rue to manage the McGill Union cafeteria for 1940-1941 was approved.

The question of carrying on the activities of the Society and of holding social functions was discussed and a committee was appointed to investigate and report on all student activities.

The matter of a co-operative bookstore was presented for discussion and it was decided that the present managers of the Book Exchange be asked to investigate the possibilities of developing the present organization of the Book Exchange into a co-operative bookstore.

was supplied by Robinson who crossed the line for two touchdowns which proved to be enough to clinch the issue. Simpson added another while Reed entered the scoring column by booting three singles. Quimet supplied the lone Army tally. The player who stood for the Army was Jack Lafoley who shook himself loose several times and skirted the ends for large gains.

The Intercompany Football sponsored by the Athletic Department to replace the regular intercollegiate competition has proved a great success so far and it is hoped that the students who are participating and those who wish to participate will show up for practices and games.

team from the Queen City have absorbed since they have been under the guidance of Coach Lou Hayman. The final score was 41 to 6, and was no exaggeration of the difference between the two teams on the day's play. We were fortunate enough to sit in on the game, and left with the firm conviction that Rough Riders are at this moment the strongest team assembled in Eastern Canada in at least the past decade. Altogether, they rang up seven touchdowns. The final whistle saved another seemingly certain score. Seven different men registered the seven different touchdowns; need any more be said?

Incidentally, this same Ottawa team will be in Montreal on Saturday, November 2nd.

Well, this Big 4 column, has spread itself over quite sufficient area, and it is not our intention to bore the football-conscious of McGill. Rather, it is still our purpose to insist that football has not been killed for the student fans. We can make just as much noise at a Big Four game as we used to at Intercollegiate games. At any rate, let's try and see...

the aged—for whom no official provision is made.

Yes, the war has brought increased employment, but this in no way eases the burden of the charitable institutions, for the Charities do help the unemployable, in a word, the destitute—people who cannot help themselves.

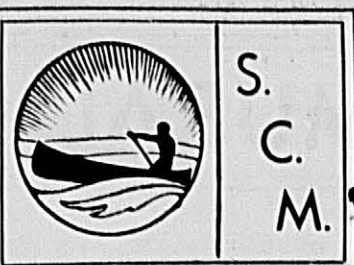

Orphanages, Homes for the Blind, the Aged, the Homeless, Mental, Medical and Dental Clinics, Welfare Agencies, Centres for distribution of fuel, clothing and food as well as those concerned with recreation and character building—all these institutions must be maintained, for hand in hand with the privileges of freedom go the responsibilities of freedom and the first of these is that the strong must help the weak. It is necessary at this time to preserve democratic ideals as well as fight for them.

WEST INDIANS HOLD SECOND MEETING

Constitution to Be Discussed and Drafted

The British West Indian students at McGill will hold their second general meeting this evening at 8.30 p.m. in the Union Grill Room. The society plans to discuss the final drafting of the constitution, and will give a report on the interview with the President of the Student Society.

A short film may also be shown, but the arrangements have not yet been completed. The executive board is anxious to have all the B.W.I. students at McGill turn out and take part actively in discussing and making suggestions in regard to the year's program.

The executive invites all those born in the B.W.I. or of British West Indian parents, and any who have been at one time resident in the West Indies to take an interest in the welfare of the islands, and come to the meeting.

The business agenda of the meeting will include:

- 1—Discussion and final drafting of the constitution; report on the interview with the President of the Student Society.
- 2—Discussion of the program to be followed for the year.
- 3—Consideration of the possibility of sending delegates to the Rotary Club and to the Canadian West Indian League.
